Crossfire Christmas (The Precinct)

An injured undercover agent must keep an innocent nurse from getting caught in the crossfire in the latest installment of The Precinct. With his life bleeding out from bullet wounds and a car crash, Charles Nash's best option is to kidnap the innocent nurse who stops to help him. At gunpoint, the jaded DEA undercover agent offers Teresa Rodriguez a desperate deal: if she keeps him alive long enough to find out who's blown his cover and set him up to die, she'll be home for Christmas. As the two go on the run from an unknown killer, the Good Samaritan gives Nash a bad case of unprofessional desire. He's drawn to the sexy little spitfire for her bravery, boldness and

The Unstrung Harp; or, Mr. Earbrass Writes a Novel

On November 18th of alternate years Mr Earbrass begins writing 'his new novel.' Weeks ago he chose its title at random from a list of them he keeps in a little green note-book. It being tea-time of the 17th, he is alarmed not to have thought of a plot to which The Unstrung Harp might apply, but his Nash and Peewee (Teresa), are the complete opposite of each other, the couple fights just as much as they love. Teresa is the ?smallest? member in her family yet seems to find herself in big trouble. With a detective and ER doctor for older siblings, Teresa finds herself reporting to others continuously.

Guided by her caring nature and career as a nurse Teresa pulls over to check on a possible stranded vehicle, only to be thrust into the crazy life of undercover work.

Nash, hard working undercover DEA agent with his cover blown is now on the run for his life. He has no family to worry about, so finding the person who blew his cover is his main goal, until he ends up needing a little doctoring on the road side.

DEA agent Nash is in big trouble, most of this employees are under suspicion of being a mole for the drug lord he was investigating. Only a few people knew where he was headed and he finds himself in a hail of gunfire and down an agent. Never did the thought of kidnapping enter into Nash?s plans until he sees the little spitfire who claims to be a nurse who can help him. Forced to help the stranger with little knowledge to go on, and now tied to a chair forces Teresa to be resourceful.

Unbeknownst to Teresa the email she sent will bring the fight right to her doorstep, enforcers and all. Narrowly escaping she finds out that Nash is keeping his promise to protect her as long as she helps patch him up, which is proving to be a difficult task. Teresa is finding it just as difficult to not fall in love with her protector, but she has got to get herself out of this situation before she can even think of love and happily ever after. With no other choice but to involve her family, Teresa reaches out to her sister and barely escapes the hands of evil again. Having two near misses, their luck finally runs out, and Teresa is nabbed by the drug lords. Using Teresa as bait to draw Nash out works, only Nash has brought in some back up to even out the odds. Finding Teresa leads to finding the rogue agent who has double crossed him and the agency. But will Nash and Teresa romance survive all this?

I enjoyed reading Crossfire Christmas, it was a quick read, that had me tuning pages to find out who the rogue agent was, and if Nash and Teresa would finally get their HEA. There were parts that I thought were partly predictable such as and undercover agent having their cover blown and it being blown by a rogue agent; but I did not have any clue who the rogue agent was until Miller revealed it. The plot was a well thought out which allowed the story to flow quickly yet gave great detail about the characters and their surroundings. I would recommend this as a suspense novel, it is listed as a Christmas novel however I felt the Christmas element was not strongly stressed throughout the novel.

Review 3:

I really enjoyed this book. It started out with lots of action. Charlie Nash is a undercover DEA agent. His team was ambushed, and he is the only survivor. He knows there is a mole that leaked key information in the department. Agent Nash can't trust anyone until he finds out who the mole is, that is responsible for the death of his team members. During the shoot out, Nash got shot, and is losing blood. Going to the hospital is out of the question. That is the first place the thugs will look for him. He can't go to the police, and he can't trust his department. His options are few.

Teresa Rodriguez is a pediatric nurse. she loves working with the kids. Teresa is the baby in her large family. She is 29 years old, and just wants her brother, and sisters to see her is a equal. Her father was killed when she was a baby, and her mother passed away not long ago. Her brother, and sisters made a vow to her mother before she died that they would protect Teresa. She loves her family dearly, but at times she feels smothered. There is no end to the day to day advice.

Teresa was on her way home from work when she spotted a truck in the ditch. Being a nurse, she quickly pulled over to the side of the road, to see if she could help the driver. She called 911. Agent Nash was dizzy from the blood loss, and driving on snow covered roads was not helping matters. His truck spun out, and he ended up in the ditch. He woke up with Teresa talking to him. When he realized she was on the phone to 911, he broke her phone, and kidnapped her by gunpoint. I love Teresa because she fought him every step of the way. She never let fear paralyze her.

The two became a team, running from the thugs that was after Nash. Agent Nash knew that the thugs would hurt Teresa without blinking an eye. I loved the action, suspense, and romance in this story. The plot was fantastic! I think the best parts of the book was when the captor became the captive. That is when Teresa, and Nash became a team. I also loved the part at the end when she said "Seriously, Nash, you need to stop getting shot. You should just ask me out on a date. Sample from chapter 12 - He brushed the hair away from her face, looked down into her eyes, "I've never felt as strong as I do when I'm with you. I need you more than I need the truth, more than I need my next breath."
